Fear of Rejection

One thing that almost every individual faces is the fear of rejection. We constantly live under this fear. Be it the fear of not being accepted by a loved one or a desired university or company or a group that you want to be in or your work or efforts being rejected, this fear always prevails and often stops us from doing what we like. For example a writer wouldn't publish his work fearing shaming and rejection. On simpler terms, a student wouldn't open up about a doubt or a doubtful answer because of the fear of being incorrect or being mocked at. What one must acknowledge is that it is okay to be wrong, it is okay to fail but it is not okay to never try. It is brave to fall and pick yourself up. What if that one simple question in your head which you think is stupid is actually a loophole that was never discovered in a superficially perfect equation? Or what if the same question is asked by somebody 3 days later and the professor just remarks, 'I was hoping somebody would ask this but nobody did for such long, I hoped better from your side '. Don't ever be afraid to take risks. If you fail, its okay, you know you tried. Sometimes, it is the guts we put into something that teach us bigger lessons. Don't be afraid to be the squeaky voice in the rumbling world. Who knows the world might just stop to listen to you.

We cannot learn without pain.

You are beautiful and you deserve to walk

Let go of the crutches

Holding you back

You are beautiful

And you deserve to walk

Believe that

Your heart is

Not beating rust

Nor is your soul

Short of outburst

Spill the darkness out

Let it be washed away

Breathe in hope

Lift your chin

Let the gown glide

While the eyes sparkle

Let freedom speak…

"If we desire a society of peace, then we cannot achieve such a society through violence. If we desire a society without discrimination, then we must not discriminate against anyone in the process of building this society. If we desire a society that is democratic, then democracy must become a means as well as an end"
